

HP Autonomy Education Training Units

What are Training Units?

The HP Autonomy Education Training Unit is a flexible and simple way to purchase training. It is a unit based account of funds that can be used towards the purchase of an HP Autonomy Education training product or service.

HP Autonomy Education Training Units are an ideal way to manage your enablement budget and planning process in today's world. Training Units allow you the flexibility to purchase training at the time that's most convenient for you, without having to know when, where or which training you'll attend or who will be attending the training from your organization.

Benefits

Helps simplify your budgeting process

We know how hard the budgeting process can be, especially if there is no clearly defined plan. Training Units give you the flexibility to purchase training when you have the budget available and allow you time to decide how and when you'll allocate those funds.

Provides flexibility in your enablement planning

Not sure who will need enablement within the next 12 months, or when? No problem. You have 12 months from the date of invoice to apply your Training Units to an HP Autonomy Education product or service. And because we know how busy life can be, we'll send you a reminder, 90, 60 and 30 days prior to expiration to remind you of your balance.

Ease of administration of units

After your initial order has been placed, you'll receive an order confirmation detailing your order and providing you with a Training Unit code. You can also contact this team to review your account summary and balance.

Use for an HP Autonomy Education Product or Service
